I think you, or someone in your group, should cover this. The attendees are operations focussed and may be interested in issues such as siting, interconnection and environmental issues. Also, from a more macro perspective, what kinds of demands the new industry structure may place on operators -- the importance of flexibility in asset operations (ie the premium the market will place on quick response) or the challenges of different scheduling regimes between the gas and power markets.

Subject: Enron's Global Asset Management Conference

Steve,
As we discussed the other day, Enron's Global Asset Management Conference committee would like to invite you to be the sponsor for our panel discussion on Enron's Regulatory and Governmental Affairs issues for this conference which is being held at the Woodlands Conference Center on October 8-11. We would like to have your panel discussion on October 9, from 3:30-5:30PM. We would like to ask that the you to put together a session that highlights topics that provide a insight from both a national and international perspective

The conference committee has chosen the One Enron theme since the attendees at the conference are coming from all the Enron business units both domestically and internationally. The estimated attendance at the conference will be 225 Enron and Joint Venture employees. The invitations are being issued enterprise-wide to employees who are engaged in operations/maintenance/purchasing./sourcing This conference is the expansion of the annual plant managers' conference that is held each year in Houston.

We are replacing it with what we will be a "Best in Class" conference addressing multiple topics that will provide direction that will result in lower costs, increased earnings and employee retention. We will also be utilizing this conference as an additional mentoring activity for our Minority/Women Business Enterprise suppliers.

I hope that you will accept our invitation, because I know many of the participants will benefit from your panels experiences and knowledge.

An agenda has been attached for your review, however it is still in development.

If you have any questions, I can be reached at (713) 646-8235.
